

and a casual bistro spiced with the spirit of New Orleans. The Troubadour moves to the rhythm of its own beat.

Top Reasons to Stay

LOCATION: CENTRAL BUSINESS DISTRICT
On the forefront of Central Business District's cultural renaissance, the hotel is steps away from where it's all happening—revived local theaters, The Smoothie King Center, The Mercedes-Benz Superdome, the nearby French Quarter and BioDistrict, the historic Garden District and the vibrant Warehouse District teeming with art and spirits.

ROOFTOP
Sure to be the neighborhood's new center of gravity, locals and guests kick back among good company in an atmosphere with street food inspired bites and unparalleled city views that are as impressive as the cocktail list and beer selection.

FOOD
Beloved local chef Phillip Lopez brings his signature brand of culinary creativity to our boutique hotel's restaurants and bars, applying his playful-with-purpose style to a flavorful menu of casual French cuisine, tasty libations and charcuterie plates for sharing.

JOIE DE VIVRE
It's the thrill you feel when life rises above the expected. We are a delightfully eclectic set of boutique hotels, each a vivid expression of an idea, and each created to be utterly unique.

promo

BOOK YOUR STAY

The Troubadour Boilerplate:

The Troubadour breathes new life into New Orleans emerging Central Business District. Beating to the city's lyrical soundscape, the 184-room hotel celebrates its vibrant home with good food, good music and good vibes. The design is a bold mix of materials and colors that reflect a passion for New Orleans' eclectic personality. Native chef Phillip Lopez adds a playful twist to traditional local dishes at his signature restaurant, Petit Lion, while its horseshoe-shaped bar is a lively hub for imbibing. The rooftop bar's jaw-dropping views overlook the surrounding theater district, French Quarter, BioDistrict and nearby Warehouse and Garden Districts. Alive with the spirit of joy and romance, The Troubadour is helping New Orleans' write its next act.

The Troubadour Brand Statement:

Joie de Vivre brings a playful passion for hospitality to New Orleans' emerging Central Business District with above-and-beyond service that oozes Southern charm. The Troubadour's vibrant aesthetic sings to locals and travelers, artists and professionals. Native chef Phillip Lopez delivers his take on local flavors at Petit Lion, while Monkey Bar features panoramic rooftop views. A stroll from the theater scene and nearby French Quarter, The Troubadour beats in the heart of the The Big Easy where guests fall in love with the spirit of the city.